TERROR IN THE NAME OF GOD: WHY RELIGIOUS MILITANTS KILL
Jessica Stern: Time Magazine’s 100 Most Influential People

SACRAMENTO — With war in the Middle East and Terrorist cells popping up in various countries, Al-Qaeda and its affiliates are still among the most significant threats to U.S. security.

Jessica Stern, one of Time Magazine’s “100 most influential people” in 2001, will be traveling to Sacramento to speak on “Terror in the Name of God: Why Religious Militants Kill.” Stern, an expert on both weapons of mass destruction and terrorism, did something no one else has ever done. She learned what makes terrorists tick by going to the source and interviewing Christian, Jewish and Islamic terrorists.

The event will be held at Westminster Presbyterian Church on October 14. She is granting in person media interviews the day of the event, as well as phone interviews prior to the 14th. For more information please call (916) 442-8939.
